DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

1. Applicant's arguments filed 07/10/2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Claims 1-19 are currently pending.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

3. Claims 1-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.

Claims 1, 9, 16-19 recites "are/is not directly addressable." (See amendment filed 07/25/2006). This is matter not found in the specification as filed; therefore, it lacks support in the original disclosure. Claims 2-7 are, dependent on claim 1 and claims 10-15 are dependent on claim 9, rejected for the same reasons. See MPEP 706.03(o).

Applicant did not provide a concise explanation of where support for the newly added limitations can be found referring to the specification as originally filed by page and line number and to the drawing, if any, by reference characters.

Response to Argument

4. Applicant, on page 8 of his response, argues that it is inherent that a mobile terminal that lacks IP address capability is not directly addressable on an IP network. Even when a mobile terminal has an IP address, it is possible that a requestor lacks the ability to reach the terminal because, for example, the IP address is not fixed as described above, thus may be arbitrarily assigned. Thus, it is inherent that a terminal that has an arbitrary or unknown IP address is not directly addressable because, without knowledge of the destination IP address, a requestor cannot directly send requests using the IP protocol.

However, the Examiner disagrees. First, in response to applicant's argument that the references fail to show certain features of applicant's invention, it is noted that the features upon which applicant relies (i.e., not directly addressable on an IP network) are not recited in the rejected claim(s). Although the claims are interpreted in light of the specification, limitations from the specification are not read into the claims. See In re Van Geuns, 988 F.2d 1181, 26 USPQ2d 1057 (Fed. Cir. 1993).

Second, claims recite "A method for retrieving content via a first network from a mobile terminal operable as server within a second network, wherein devices operable on the second network are not directly addressable via the first network." In response to applicant's argument that the references fail to show certain features of applicant's invention, it is noted that the features upon which applicant relies (i.e., it is inherent that a mobile terminal that lacks IP address capability is not directly addressable on an IP network) are not recited in the rejected claim(s). Although the claims are interpreted in light of the specification, limitations from the specification are not read into the claims. See In re Van Geuns, 988 F.2d 1181, 26

USPQ2d 1057 (Fed. Cir. 1993). Applicant should be noted that a device could be anything, not only a mobile terminal.

Third, Applicant argues that it is inherent that a mobile terminal that lacks IP address capability is not directly addressable on an IP network; and it is inherent that a terminal that has an arbitrary or unknown IP address is not directly addressable. In response, the Applicant uses a particular words, e.g., it is inherent, that means is not necessary, not required, nor limited to do so; therefore, not inherent. Once again, The Applicant should particularly point out where of specification supports that limitation (not directly addressable), not just only “it is inherent”.

Conclusion

5. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
